The sun is shining bright and cheerily, Gilding all the bay; Then rouse thee, rouse thee--ne er so wearily-Chase thy gloom away! Trouble and toil are the lot of all, While in this world we stay; List to the voice that bids rejoice, And hope for a brighter day! Thou couldst not have thy wish, then never Believe twere good for thee; Leave all to Him whose ordering ever The wisest, best must be. And lest of the mercies left thee, The vision should pass away, List to the voice that bids rejoice, And hope for a brighter day I THE SUN IS SHINING. 149 The winter snows are deep and wearisome, Falling cold and chill; But underneath, the sweet spring blossoms Are sleeping safe from ill. Soon will the sun disperse the storm, And soon will the snowdrops bloom; And soon will thy grief...
