Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from Thirty Years With the Horse When we read the opinions of any acknowledged authority, in this or that art or science in which we feel interested, we naturally wish to know something of the personal history and character of the man himself. We feel an interest in him, arising from our admiration of the skill and experience which have made him distinguished; and also because, by knowing him, we can the better tell what value to set upon his judgment. For these reasons it has been deemed fit that a biography should accompany this pamphlet, which sets forth so many directions, and principles of importance, to all who own horses or have anything to do with them; directions and principles which have irresistible weight, because sanctioned by him, - a man whose name as an equestrian and horse-owner has as wide a celebrity as that of any man living; a fame, too, which is not of mushroom growth, but the legitimate offspring of more than thirty years of active equestrian life. As this work is to go before the world, and will doubtless exercise great influence over the minds of thousands, who either ride, drive, own or have the charge of horses, it is due to the subject of this biography to state that it is written, not to give force to his opinions in the minds of veteran horse-owners and dealers in this country, for they have long known Mr. Stickney better than pen or type can portray him. This prefatory sketch is chiefly published for the information of the masses, who have but an imperfect knowledge of him. It will also serve as...
