ABOUT THE BOOK

It is a plea for a little love and attention. It is a cry from the silence of stolen voices. It is heard in the anguish of that poor and helpless widow who has to tend her sickly child in a home where the in laws have emptied after the death of her loving husband. It is the pain of the that young girl who is circumcised in the name of tradition. It is the grief of the young wife who bears the battering from her heartthrob that had become a heartache. From the rape victim on the streets of India to the product of rape child in the huts of Rwanda, from the hurt of early marriages to the shame of human trafficking; one thing remains certain: this is not Gods design. The love of a mother is infinite, limitless, eminent and unmitigated. Her love for her children lives on even...
